

Svetlana Valonis
Director, U.S. Energy Advisory
PwC

Svetlana Valonis is a director in PwC's U.S. Energy Advisory practice based in Houston. She brings 14 years of combined management consulting and Oil & Gas industry experience across the energy value chain.

Valonis has worked with IOC, NOC, independent E&P, refining and oilfield services companies on strategic and operational issues. She specializes in growth strategy, business transformation, performance improvement, M&A strategy and integration.

Prior to PwC, Valonis was a consultant at Charles River Associates and held project management and procurement positions at ExxonMobil.