

NORMAN A. JOHNSON is a Professor and Chairman of the Decision and Information Sciences Department in the Bauer College of Business at the University of Houston. He holds an MBA in Finance from Baruch College, an M.Phil. and a Ph.D. in Business from the City University of New York. His expertise is in the areas of decision-making, psychometric analysis, data mining, and predictive analytics. He has been involved in teaching and research in these and other areas for over two decades. In applied research and practice, he focuses on developing predictive models from structured and unstructured data. He serves as a senior advisor on data science to companies in the energy industry, education, private equity. His research interests include media and negotiation, behavioral choices, psychometrics, and analytics. He has published in several leading journals such as MIS Quarterly, European Journal of Information Systems, Information Systems Journal, and Decision Support Systems.